

Thinking Together: International knowledge on Cities and Climate

Date: Tuesday 8 December 3:00-5:00 pm
Webinar (Microsoft Teams)

INVITATION

In CONCITO's Future Cities Program, "Thinking Together" events are held four times a year hosted by group chairman Jørgen Abildgaard, Head of the Climate Secretariat at the City of Copenhagen.

In this webinar, focus will be on international knowledge on cities and climate and how some of the leading international organizations and research institutions work with the agenda.

We have invited some of CONCITO's strategic and collaboration partners from World Resources Institute (WRI), C40 Cities and the University of Southern Denmark to give us an introduction to their work, focus areas and analysis they have spearheaded or contributed to.

The format will be an introduction to the theme followed by three presentations and dialogue – hence Thinking Together – between the three speakers and the participants. The webinar will be held in English.

SPEAKERS

- 1) "The Future of Cities After COVID-19" by Leo Horn-Phathanothai, Director for Strategy and Partnerships at WRI Ross Center for Sustainable Cities
- 2) "Thriving Cities - how to downscale Doughnut Economics to city level" by Julia Lipton, Head of the Thriving Cities at C40 Cities
- 3) "Urban Resilience: urban policies and actions at the time of crisis" by Nicola Tollin, Professor wsr in Urban Resilience at University of Southern Denmark

SIGN UP

If you would like to participate, please send a mail to Anna Esbjørn at ae@concito.dk by 1 December. If you have a colleague who would also like to participate, you are welcome to forward the invitation. After the deadline, you will receive a Microsoft Teams invitation to the webinar. Until then, please note the date and time in your calendar.

THINKING TOGETHER

With Thinking Together events and webinars, we want to create a room for dialogue and mutual learning on climate-related issues. Here, a selected circle of experts, stakeholders and decision makers meet informally to exchange knowledge and ideas. Thinking Together events follow the Chatham House Rules, where knowledge and thoughts can only be used for background knowledge and not quoted.

THE TEAM

Thinking Together events are planned by

- Jørgen Abildgaard, Chairman of CONCITO's Cities Group
- Inge Nilsson, Senior Consultant, CONCITO, in@concito.dk
- Anna Esbjørn, Program Manager, CONCITO, ae@concito.dk

CONCITO'S FUTURE CITIES GROUP

The group consists of CONCITO members with a special interest in cities and climate. The work in the group is intended to:

- Qualify themes and challenges that CONCITO's Future Cities Program should focus on
- Point out knowledge gaps in current work with cities and climate
- Contribute with knowledge and new perspectives that can catapult the green transition
